

Tribal Initiative: Where to Start? Developing LTSS with and for American Indians and Alaska Natives

HCBS Conference – December 8

Tribal Initiative: Where to Start? Developing LTSS with and for American Indians and Alaska Natives

- States, tribes and Area Agencies on Aging often struggle to develop a working knowledge of tribal sovereignty, treaty rights and contracting requirements to implement successful LTSS with tribal nations.
- Join state and tribal representatives to learn a variety of successful approaches and adaptations as a result of COVID-19. Panelists will share how to identify needs, solutions and programming to decrease health disparities and improve the health of American Indians/Alaska Natives.

Washington State Government to Government: A work in Progress Ann Dahl

• Indian Policy Advisory Committee (IPAC): https://www.dshs.wa.gov/sesa/office-indian-policy/indian-policy-advisory-committee-ipac

1977: IPAC created to establish concurrent jurisdiction between Indian Tribes and the State of Washington Department of Social and Health Services.

1978: Indian Child Welfare Act established in response to the crisis affecting American Indian and Alaska Native Children, families and tribes.

1989: Signing of the Centennial Accord – reaffirming the fact that we must work together, government to government, for the benefit of both tribal and non-tribal people.

1999: Signing of the Agreement to Institutionalize the Government to Government Relationship in Preparation for the New Millennium - it is critical for people to realize that the establishment and continued function of the state of Washington is based on contracts, or treaties, with the tribes.

Designation of tribal liaison.

- (1) Assisting the state agency in developing and implementing state and agency policies that promote effective communication and collaboration between the state agency and tribal governments;
- (2) Serving as a contact person with tribal governments and maintaining communication between the state agency and affected tribal governments; and
- (3) Coordinating training of state agency employees in government-to-government relations with tribal nations

Contract Consolidation - Intergovernmental Agreement

- Developed as an attempt to streamline current methods in paying tribes for services rendered.
- Features of this approach include reduced paperwork, an annual reporting system and a more efficient use of Tribal and state funds.
- This system is currently being reviewed and will be updated soon.

- Establishment of the 7.01 Policy, November 1, 1987
- Focus: Communication, Collaboration, and Consultation with WA tribes, service planning, service delivery

2017: Reviewed all Aging and Long Term
Support Services Contracts to see what barriers of Sovereignty were in the contracts.
Removed those barriers that were not safety issues or were against state and federal policy.
Waivers were put in place where possible.

2018: Wrote Medicaid Contracting with Tribal Nations – Updated Management Bulletin for Indian Nation Program Agreements for 10 AAA contracts

To share information about effective State-Tribal consultation on healthcare, CMS conducted guided discussions in Minnesota, Oregon, and Washington. These states possess CMS-approved State Plan Amendments guiding consultation with Tribes. They also have an established history of successful State-Tribal consultation practices. State and Tribal participants in Medicaid and CHIP consultations identified the strengths and weaknesses of these current consultation processes in each location.
